The commission in charge of the local situation will have wide cowers. It will be composed of practical men, unbound by any railroud or financial considerations that might make them tender in enforcing the law against corporations. The present Board of Rapid Tmansit Commissioners is self-perpetuating and experience has shown that nothing in the way of drastic action against the street railway monopoly may be expected from it.

Altogether the Public Utilities bill is the most encouraging symptom that the protests of the people, voiced by The Evening World, against intolerable transportation facilities have borne fruit that the history of this city records.

them for verdict of acquittal against James and Philip Strother, who won freedom for the killing of William F. Bywaters, pleading the unwritten law, in court at Culpeper, Va.

CULPEPER, Va., March 7.-James and Philip Strother were acquitted by the jury to-day of the killing of their brother-in-law. William F. Bywaters, and the Unwritten Law was upheld in Virginia. Despite the instructions of the court that there is no such thing as the Unwritten Law there is little doubt that the jury held that the Strother boys were justified in slaying the man who betrayed their sister and married her under compulsion.

The twelve men who had the fate of the Strothers in their hands Guaranteed Liquor Cure deliberated one hour and thirty minutes. The delay was caused by the interpolation of a plea of emotional insanity by the defense at the very close of the trial. This matter was discussed by the jurymen, but so far as can be learned it was overridden by the impression that the killing was justified by a law that no statute book carries.
